pendents expressed complete indifference to the Moses statement, while the New Hampshire senator himself went into the midst of the connection with his duties as chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee.

Far-Reaching Break Is Feared by Republicans

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—With the insurgent group suspicious of every political maneuver by Old Guard regulars, the rather mysterious visit of Senator Moses, chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, to the Middle West today left in its wake a far-reaching schism within the Republican party.

It undoubtedly would be carried into the 1932 election, seriously endangering a Republican success in the presidential campaign of that year, and might lead to the permanent creation of a third major party.

Only a year ago, Sen. Norris (R), Nebraska, veteran insurgent leader, broke away from his party to support Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic presidential nominee. The Democratic president of the insurgent group remained loyal to Herbert Hoover's candidacy, chiefly because he was warmly supported by Sen. Brookhart (R), Iowa, and Sen. Borah (R), Idaho.

Now both Brookhart and Borah have split with the President and have taken the lead—along with Norris—in opposing the administration.

In the preceding presidential campaign, the elder La Follette (R), Wisconsin, led his party to have a third party movement. He carried with him his son, the late La Follette, Sen. Frank (R), New Dakota, and Brookhart. Pres. and Brookhart only were denied all Republican recognition because they both only had been admitted to party councils two years later.

In 1925, Senator Hiram Johnson (Rep.) of California, then Governor of the state, broke away from the party to support the famous Bull Moose ticket for vice-president.

La Follette and Moses in the Middle West will attract great interest, not only because of his political friendship for President Hoover and his official position as senatorial campaign treasurer to Ohio's Kahn, Wall Street financier—an appointment that outraged the insurgents.

California Governor Will Philmore Mooney Case

San Francisco, Nov. 8 (AP)—Gov. Young in Sacramento today promised a thorough investigation of an alleged confession by Lewis Smith of Cleveland that he and not Tom Mooney was responsible for the 1933 San Francisco firebombing.

The Governor said he had not yet received the request for such action which U. S. Senator Schall announced in Washington he would send him.

Senator Schall sends me any information concerning the Mooney case and such information as to call for investigation, I will do it in my power to check it and prove it true or false," declared Gov. Young.

went into seclusion. She is being aided by friends.

Search for the assistant treasurer was started by private detectives in the employ of a bonding company. Just prior to his flight he is said to have cashed a check for $137,000 made payable to the New England Fish Exchange.

The detectives now have been reinforced by inspectors from the Boston bureau of criminal investigation, who have broadcast a description of the fleeing man, with a request that he be picked up on sight.

Griffin, for many years a trusted official of the Fish Exchange, had been in charge of the bookkeeping at the fish pier since the removal of a wholesale fish mart from Tripoli to South Boston in 1918. The money, it is said, was taken in small amounts over a period of 11 years.

In spite of regular audits of the books, the defalcations were not uncovered until another matter, of similar nature was brought to the attention of directors of the exchange. After satisfactory adjustment of this matter, which involved embezzlement by another employee, it was decided to have an outside firm check Griffin's books.

Stories, it was said, had been circulated that financial condition of the firm was not as it should have been.

When Griffin learned of the impending audit, he is said to have left the fish pier on a boat, leaving the fleeing man, with a request that he be picked up on sight.

Charles Trippli, Jr., who dies in the electric chair during the trial of Nov. 17 for the murder of Fred Plummer, a State prison guard, whom he killed last Armistice Day during an attempt to escape from prison, was given a $50,000 side from the prison death cell at Charlestown jail and back last night. This was learned today.

The side resulted from a technicality that arose over Trippli's delivery to the prison.

When Charles at jail officer went to the State Prison and presented papers to the case to Warden James L. Hogsett, stating that the officer delivered the prisoner to the warden on that date, the warden declined to accept the papers, as Trippli was already in the death house, having been sent to the prison on that date.

He suggested the jail officer get a writ of habeas corpus from Judge Gray. This was done. Trippli was taken to Charles at jail, booked, and returned to the State Prison, and Warden Hogsett accepted the papers.

Gov. Frank G. Allen today announced that the hearing for stenography in Trippli's case will be given next Wednesday afternoon.

Auto Bandits Rob 2 Rich Women of Gems

Chicago, Nov. 8 (AP)—Mrs. Arthur W. Cutten and Mrs. Alfred T. Martin, wives of multi-millionaire stock and grain operators, were robbed of money and jewels in a Gold Coast building here.

Police were told Mrs. Cutten lost a "very valuable" necklace of matched pearls, but its worth was not given. Mrs. Martin, whose husband is vice-president of Bartlett Granger Co., brokers, lost a necklace of imported value.

The robbery evidently was planned and executed by their handmaid, assisted by a blonde young woman.

Mrs. Cutten had been hosted by Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Joy Morton, wife of the head of the Morton Salt Company, at dinner and a theater party. Mrs. Morton had been left in a taxicab after the theater and the other two women were on the way to Mrs. Martin's Gold Coast home when the robbery took place.

Their car was about a block from their destination when another auto drew alongside, one of its five passengers shouting that they were police officers and directing the Cutten chauffeur to stop at the curb.

The chauffeur was ordered from the car and taken under guard a

Some foolish Americans think a trade not good enough for their boys. They say, "I want my boy to be somebody."

Henry Ford selected him to manage his production. General Motors took him from Ford to manage Chevrolet production.

And Knudsen has many millions of dollars plus an interesting job; a trade plus brains did that for him.

SEES PERIL TO HUMAN LIFE IN INSECT PESTS

Federal Expert Says Man's Existence Depends on the Control of Menace

Durham, N. H., Nov. 8 (AP)—Man's success in his fight for his very existence will depend more and more upon his ability to control the insect pests which destroy many millions of dollars' worth of his crops annually.

Adequate control of these insects can be accomplished only by the use and further development of chemical insecticides, Dr. Henry U. Knight, chief of the bureau of chemistry and soils of the Department of Agriculture, declared today at the dedication of a new chemistry building at the University of New Hampshire.

This country is only beginning to utilize its resources for potato and ammonia. Knight said. He predicted the United States will rapidly increase its production of these fertilizers, which hitherto have been coming largely from other countries.

Knight pointed out that utilization of the by-products and wastes of the farm for the manufacture of articles of commerce is increasing.

He cited numerous instances of farm by-products of one request or another, becoming sources of profit to farmers and manufacturers. Among these he mentioned cottonseed meal, fruit culls and bagasse, the crushed pulp of the cane-sugar mill.

CONGRESS HOPE FOR TARIFF RETRADES

Only Three of Fifteen Rate
Schedules Reached, With Three Weeks to Go

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—Half-time of the special session period available to the Senate for action on the rate schedules of the tariff bill found it today with less than one-fifth of the work completed.

Debate embraced remaining paragraphs of the third of 15 schedules, although three of the six which were scheduled for the special session when rate revision was begun on October 21 had passed. The regular session of Congress will convene December 2.

Whereas at the outset of consideration of levies, all sides were generally agreed that action should be completed by November 20, little hope is now held that the bill will be ready for conference before the special session ends.

Expectations were that the balance of amendments to the metal classification, with the exception of the important watches and clocks paragraphs, deferred until Monday, would be disposed of today.

While prospects have dimmed for a final vote by the end of the extraordinary session, leaders of the House have expressed an intention of standing by until the December session, if necessary, to consider the measure.

S-22 HAS SAFETY RIC

Portsmouth, N. H., Nov. 8 (AP)—The task of equipping the U. S. submarine S-22 with all the safety devices adopted by the Navy Department was completed at the Portsmouth Navy Yard today. The S-22 is the first of the new submarines to be equipped.

The most important of the safety devices is a new escape hatch, placed on the side of the hull, which salvaging gear may be attached to, and which will be used to mark the position of the craft in time of disaster.

The S-22 is under command of Lieutenant Harold J. W. Miller, who will be given post train trials off the coast of New England.

Fourteen other submarines, including those now in the yard, will be similarly equipped under the new equipment for submarines on duty in the Pacific is being manufactured here and will be shipped for installation at Pacific yards.

50,000 BROKERS' CLERKS REAL HEROES OF STOCK MARKET CRASH

ONE WORKED 72 HOURS STRETCH

Another Faint, but Refused to Quit After Being Revived

New York, Nov. 9 (AP)—With the Stock Exchange comparatively quiet and operating only three hours a day, some 50,000 men and women, boys and girls, who comprise the daytime population of Wall Street are these days valiantly digging their way out of the debris. It will take some of them days to get caught up, but, as one clerk put it today:

"I'm 'n'ough if you can sleep at home now and then and 'have dinner with the family every other day or so."

And some of them today attacked the job of straightening things out with the impetus inspired by generous financial rewards.

For instance, the firm of Stock, Maloney & Co. has granted all its employees two weeks' extra pay for working during the rush.

DIDN'T DARE SLEEP

For years to come old-timers in the banks and brokerage houses of the financial district will be telling youngsters about these last two weeks—an entire fortnight—during which some of them never got home at all.

In one big office there was an order clerk who worked 72 hours straight through without sleep. That was during the week of the "wild Thursday."

"Sleepy, I didn't dare get sleepy. I'd have been sunk if I had," he is lightening up now. "I only had to work until 3 o'clock yesterday morning, and today being a holiday, I ought to be out of here by 9:30 tonight."

FAINTED AWAY

They tell the story of another clerk who, one night last week, after working 48 hours at a stretch fainted away. They stretched him out in a beach chair—office managers resorted to beach chairs after the supply of cots and hotel rooms on Brooklyn Heights had given out—called a doctor from the Stock Exchange medical department, that had stayed open all night for just such emergencies, and present brought him to.

"Now get your hat and coat and beat it home and get some sleep," the office manager told him.

"The heck, I will!" retorted the young man. And he went right back to work.

And there's another story about a young man who was lying on a couch in an office, sound asleep, when along came a newspaper photographer. The photographer, who was in one of the New York dailies, five days later he received a fan letter from some girl in the south.

OPEN ORDER TANGLE

Straightening out "open orders" is a job that has occupied a good bit of time. "Open orders" are orders that, during the confusion on the floor those wild days, got mixed up.

A member would sell 200 shares of something, and—well, it was caused by 3500 men and boys all at once—would fail to get the name of the purchase. Or maybe he would get his orders mixed up with the order of the day. In one of his pockets and forgot to deliver. And the day after tomorrow would be child's play compared with straightening out some of those "open orders."

"We had 500 of 'em last week," the clerk remarked, "we've got 'em all straightened out except five now."

All next week the stock exchange is going to be open only three hours a day instead of five. And the 50,000 who "work in Wall St." are beginning once more to turn out their lights at 5 p. m. and start home for dinner.

Senate Orders a Report on Dry Fund

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—The Senate today adopted a resolution by Senator Harris (D), Georgia, calling upon Secretary Mellon to furnish information about expenditures by the Treasury of the $2,000,000 for prohibition enforcement authorized by Congress last spring in addition to that carried in the regular supply bill.

Today, in the real estate columns of the classified ads, you will find scores of opportunities for profitable investments.

The raid was conducted by Winfred C. MacBryne, chief of enforcement in this district, who said the Jones law was involved in the seizure.

'Best Dressed' Woman Spurns Long Skirts

New York, Nov. 9.—The "best dressed woman in Europe," the Reginald Astley, the lowest of London, wears her honor with grace and her clothes with individuality.

Mrs. Fallowell does not follow "the dictate of fashion" to clothes and glee. Never mind about individuality in dressing is what counts, she claims. And being individual, she dislikes the present mode of the long dress.

The new long dresses long before this style started. I think they are very attractive for evening, but certainly not for street wear. I should think that women would find the long street dress really dangerous to wear. She can't get into taxis and on to trains.

"Whether or not the long skirt is becoming depends upon the woman wearing it. I dress to please myself. I arrange style to suit myself. Skirts depend on the woman's legs. If she has slim legs she can wear a skirt any length. If her legs are thick, she should wear a skirt that will cover the knee."

EX-CADET GETS JOB AS NEWS REPORTER

Paul Capron, Jr., Resigned From West Point After Wedding a Colonel's Daughter.

West Newbury, Nov. 9.—Paul Capron, Jr., who was expelled from West Point Academy when he married Marguerite Gillespie, a colonel's daughter, leaves for New York tonight to confer with Arthur Brisbane, world-renowned writer, who has offered him a position on the New York Journal.

Young Capron, who is honeymooning here with his little blonde bride, is slated over the opportunity to get employment in the metropolis as a reporter. His bride is delighted, too.

The former West Point cadet, who performed magnificently in a continuance of a military career, displayed keen interest in journalism when a group of reporters called on him here. He asked them many questions as to the profession. "I like to write," he said, "and have always thought I'd like the newspaper game."

"Get that great," he said as he read the offer made by Mr. Brisbane. "I'll go right after that. I'll take the midnight train to New York and talk with Mr. Brisbane about his offer."

"Excuse me a minute, please. I want to take this up and show it to my wife."

He took the clipping upstairs. His bride, soon came down to the living room, her face wreathed in smiles. "I don't think I shall be said after being introduced to the reporters. Turning to the former cadet, she said: 'I look as though your wish will be fulfilled before we expect it.'"

While the bride made coffee for the scribes Capron sat in front of the fireplace in which a brisk fire was burning and talked of West Point.

He told his questioners that he failed to see much of the Army-Yale game as they were busy being married while the contest was in progress.

Spiritist Inventress Says She Is Psychic

New York, Nov. 9.—An invention which is hoped to reduce the labor of the army of business stenographers will replace a public demonstration Tuesday.

"Lady Edison" (Rosalie Henry) is the scientific mother of the device. It consists of an attachable ribbon for any typewriter which, it is claimed, will eliminate the necessity of using carbon paper.

"I know nothing of mechanism," she said. "I believe I have a strong psychic power. The idea for an invention struck me suddenly and then it is as good as completed. I direct the construction through expert mechanics."

"I believe that the spirit of some little dead child communicates with me and suggests the ideas to me for these toys," Miss Henry said.

The inventress is an individual type of Spiritist. She has never attended a seance.

"But I believe that some day we will communicate with the dead through radio," she asserted.

CIGARET BLAST KILLS 5 MEN

Elkhart, O., Nov. 9 (AP)—Five workmen were instantly killed and seven others, including three women, were injured, probably fatally, in an explosion today which demolished the manufacturing plant of the Times Spring Company.

The blast occurred when one of the employees lighted a cigarette in a room for smoking, according to Sam Huston, who was one of the injured.

"Don't light that match!" the foreman shouted, but he was too late with his warning. The steel followed instantly. There was a terrific roar and everything seemed to collapse around us," he said.

W. O. Timm, owner of the plant and prominent both here and in Cleveland, said the main loss would be from the valuable tools and equipment destroyed. He said he was unable to estimate the damage, however.

The day came when she realized that she wanted to be sincere again about her career and she buckled down. She dieted, trained and got her physical and mental being vivid and alert.

Meanwhile, producers had been discovering that the independent pictures she had been playing in had been making a lot of money—and they grabbed her.

HUB CATHOLICS LEAD BIG SESSION

New Orleans, Nov. 8.—Boston Catholics are to play an important part in the convention here of the national Catholic charities, which get under way with a meeting of diocesan directors.

Thomas F. Farrell of New York, president of the national conference, is presiding over the sessions to last through Nov. 15. Bernard C. Kelly of Boston, a vice president, will direct one section of the discussion here, while the Rev. George P. O'Connor of Boston is on the executive committee.

Other important committee members from New England attending the sessions are Joseph M. Tully of Providence, committee on families; Miss Margarette Boyan of Hartford, Rev. Robert P. Barry of Boston and Rev. Matthew Judge of Hartford, committee on children.

Miss Catherine C. C. Harrison, Boston, chairman of the youth committee; Rev. C. C. Curran, Providence, and Miss Teresa Lavey of Boston, protective care; Rev. Robert P. Barry, Boston, organization.

The convention brought about 2500 delegates here from all parts of the country with thousands of energy and lay workers from New England.

On Sunday morning His Grace Archbishop John P. Shaw of New Orleans will celebrate a high mass in the Loyola University hall, which will be chosen for the children's voices and his bands. Several hundred delegates, including those from New England, visited historic St. Louis Cathedral in the Vieux Carre and the statue of St. Roch's shrine in the Vieux Carre. Others were entertained in the homes of New Orleans Catholic leaders.

WAS 'PICKED' TO KILL 'TRAITOR'

Berlin, Nov. 9 (AP).—Peter Martin Lampel, German dramatist, was en route to a Silesian prison today charged with murder and having been the center of a situation matching in interest any that his pen has produced.

Poles in holding him believed they had solved the three-year mystery of the death of Fritz Kochler, soldier of the "Black Army" or Oberland Free Corps, Nationalist organization, who disappeared mysteriously while stationed in Silesia in 1921.

The arrest was said to be due to information of a fellow member of the organization named Mueller, who said he and the dramatist were members of the party designated to execute the man in accordance with the sentence of a secret court.

This court was allegedly self-appointed to put to death "traitors" within the organization it represented. Information given the police was that Lampel himself fired the shot which killed the dramatist, whose body never has been found.

Police found the dramatist at work at his typewriter. Some of his more recent plays have been executed, under considerable constraint. Police suspicion was said to have been aroused by his realistic description of the proceedings of the secret death tribunals.

The pride that their mothers and grandmothers took in patterning out quilts and spreads is being revived with that more costly.

And the Boston Evening American is inviting every one of the Nancy Page Quilt Club members, of which you are now one, to try for the $100 in cash awards which are to go to those making the best quilt out of the patterns which are to be published in this newspaper.

Here are the awards:
$25 for quilt judged best
$50 for quilt judged the next best
$15 for quilt judged third best
$10 for quilt judged fourth best

When Aunt Nancy had been making the beautiful block quilt with all its quaint and curious patterns, she had been in the different blocks Joan had been one of the most interesting ones.

Here Is Alphabet Quilt Block No. 1—The Apple

LITTLE four-year-old Joan skipped home from the shopping expedition with glee. Aunt Nancy had purchased the materials for her new quilt. She had measured the cuts, measured the five yards of white Peter Paningham and had chosen the quilt, pale green. Of this color she heard her aunt order one and one-half yards.

As soon as they reached home Nancy hurried up her piece and chose a figured print in soft terra cotta tones. She found some medium dark plain green and a yard of dark green.

She used the figured print for the apple leaf and the dark green for stem with the medium shade of leaf. In her book of needlework patterns she found some fast color brown which she later used to outline the apple and piece at the blossom and the leaf.

She had purchased some fast color embroidery cotton in green, the same shade as the green ground, which she planned for the strip of color between the two blocks.

Had she chosen pink, blue, yellow or lavender for the strip of color she would have purchased embroidery cotton in the color to correspond.

Nancy experimented with various methods of transferring the apple pattern to her book of white.

First she cut her white block, making it 14 1/2 inch square. This allowed one-quarter inch on all sides for seams so that her finished block was 14 inch square.

Since the white material was so soft and fine she found she could lay the square over the pattern, as given in today's paper, and cut the square out of the paper and laid her square of cloth over it. By putting lines on the window pane she was able to see the outline clearly and could follow it with a sharp pencil, making a fine line mark on the white block. When the pattern was laid on the paper, she used the newspaper pattern and traced the outline of the apple, the leaf and the stem on the block.

Then she placed the stem and the leaf in their proper position, and traced the outline of the apple on the block. She used the same method for the stem and the leaf.

She used the same method for the stem and the leaf. She used the same method for the stem and the leaf.

News of Modern Homes

English Stucco Cottage, at $11,400

By National Modern Homes Bureau, Inc.

MANY houses like a nice bedroom on the first floor in preference to having all of the bedrooms on the second floor. A first floor bedroom is certainly a convenience; it can be used by any member of the family or guests to whom stair climbing is difficult; in case of sickness it saves many steps.

One enters this house, A-83, through an enclosed porch into the living room. The fireplace is at the far end of this room and directly opposite the large bay window in the dining room, thus a pleasing vista is afforded.

A small hall serves the kitchen, the bedroom and the stairway. A good coat closet is provided.

The rear entry serves the kitchen and the stairway and a space is provided here for the refrigerator.

A dining alcove with built-in seats and table is provided off the kitchen; a small rear porch is a convenience.

The arrangement of the kitchen equipment is convenient and compact; space for two cooking ranges is provided so that one may have their choice of fuel to be used.

The cellar extends under the entire house and provides the laundry, heater space, store room and the like.

This house would set well on a 50-foot lot.

The exterior is English in type; stucco walls, brick chimneys, half-timber work and casement windows. The roof is brought down to the first story, giving a pleasing cottage effect.

The interiors offer fine possibilities in decorating and furnishing.

Cost about $11,400.

COMPLETE working plans and specifications of the house illustrated above may be obtained for a nominal cost from the National Modern Homes Bureau, Inc. Any technical questions regarding this house will be answered without cost or obligation. Address: National Modern Homes Bureau, Inc., Real Estate Department, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston. Refer to House A-83.

The Fine Points in Homes of Today

By BETTY BONNELL

Of course, every modern housewife admires radiator covers for the home. But I doubt whether she has thought of them as a means to have them as yet, can really appreciate how much they mean to the room decorations—until they have them installed. In fact, if they did appreciate it, I'm sure that they would do everything to protect that budget far enough to include this modern and much-needed feature.

I've noted that many of the radiators in wood with the interior protected against the steam by a surface of metal. The exposed surfaces are exquisitely done in every conceivable color and grain; so that whatever your decorations you can find something that will create a perfect harmony.

Others are made of heavy furniture, cleverly finished to simulate wood and I presume that they will last a lifetime.

What I like most about radiator covers is the fine grill work that so many of them show on the front and sides. Most of them are done in simple criss-cross technique. I admire greatly the hand-worked effect that give some of them an individual and distinctive.

When you get ready to order a radiator cover, study the layout of the radiators most carefully. For instance, if one is placed between two windows, you can have a cabinet built that will serve as a beautiful window seat where a tapestry cover and soft cushions will create a beautiful effect.

A central wall position is often called for a bookcase. The cabinet can thus be extended on both sides and shelves built in between several rows of books. If you have a radiator near a corner, it can be built like a small console table supporting a flower vase.

There are really endless things that can be done with radiator covers to transform your own into a harmonious blending of colors.

LITERATURE on standard materials and products used in the construction of Modern Homes will be sent to you, if you will check the subjects that interest you and mail to the National Modern Homes Bureau, Inc., Real Estate Dept., Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston.

ARMISTICE DAY SERVICES IN CHURCHES AND SCHOOLS

A majority of Greater Boston churches will in some way commemorate an event which took place just 12 years ago and which brought to all mankind a thrill of sentiment and a prayer of thanksgiving. If out of an astounding tragedy, Armistice Day came a universal pact of peace to banish war from the earth forever, millions of lives will not have been lost in vain.

CAVERT ROUND TABLE SEMINAR AT HARVARD

As a fitting accompaniment to the great world armistice there has been called together 400 representatives of three great faiths, Catholic, Jewish and Protestant, to discuss for two days how these three elements in a civilized world may now or live in brotherly appreciation of each other. This seminar has been called by the Calvert Round Table of Boston and Harvard to meet in the Fog Museum at Harvard, Tuesday and Wednesday of this coming week—November 12 and 13.

The president of this recent organization in Boston is P. A. O'Connell, who already sees possible results beyond his most sanguine hopes. He thought if 400 people should signify their intention of attending the seminar he would be satisfied—that being the number that assembled here New York some months ago. Early response and acceptance, however, have passed the 400 mark and more are still coming in.

Some of the men who will address the Round Table on various topics are: President A. Lawrence Lowell, George W. Coleman, Prof. John J. Mahoney, Rabbi Harry Levi, Rev. Michael Ahern, Prof. Harrison S. Elliott and the president, Mr. O'Connell.

CATHOLIC WELFARE AND SOUTHERN MILLS

In connection with a drive by the American Federation of Labor in a determination to unionize southern mills, the National Catholic Welfare Conference, Washington, D. C., writes in a widely circulated bulletin:

"This drive comes at a time when the situation has been dramatized by death and injury among both strikers and non-strikers and widely accepted charges of injustices in the southern courts, of convictions of strikers when police have met injury and of failure to protect non-strikers have suffered."

These packs lie above high table lands of tragedy inherent in the ordinary every day lives of southern mill hands. The record in the South is one of low wages, long hours of child labor, no working mothers, of people new to industry and simple and primitive. These conditions are completely unorganized to protect the workers and make advances in the scale of their work and lives."

Police Raiders Are Forced to

Floor to Den

Groping through darkness late the fourth floor of a building in Chinatown early today, a raiding party crashed its way into a seamy, alleged opium den, seized a quantity of the narcotic and placed the Chinese under arrest.

Sergeant James P. O'Neill, leader of the raiding squad, received a back slash on his left hand when he struck it against a metal cleat in the darkened room where the three men were seized.

Remaining on duty until the raid had been completed and the captives lodged at the city hall police station, Sergeant O'Neill then was rushed to City Hospital for treatment.

The alleged den was on the fourth floor of a building in Chinatown at All lights had been extinguished when the raiding party arrived, and they were forced to feel their way as they went.

The three Chinamen, it is said, were found cowering in corners when a policeman played his flashlight about the room.

CHING JOHNSON FAMOUS HOCKEY PLAYER MAY QUIT ICE GAME

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—The New York Rangers, a champion or title contender ever since their entrance into the National Hockey League, may have a real team again this season or just a set of forwards and a goal tender. The situation is up to Chief Johnson.

Chief, otherwise known as "Ivan the Terrible," has been a great defense star as long as the Rangers have been in the city. He has been a valuable old property in the West and believes that hockey should offer him an excellent chance to be a sign again with the Rangers.

This Col. John S. Hammond, the investor in the team, says that he owns the club says can't be done

The Rangers, however, have two outstanding defense youngsters in "Tut" Foster and Leo Quenneville. They are expected to be available for pickup call from the variety "farm" at Springfield in the near future.

Without turning the league receipts over to his defense, Cook, an outstanding forward, says he is not going to play any position on the team, or accept any salary. He will be called back to help John Ross Brown, who is recovering from a Frank Boucher will be back at center with Bill Cook. Bill Lefley will be back at forward and Leroy Goldsworthy playing defense at top and right wing. Goldsworthy is the only newcomer to the team.

The tall colonel is distinctly worried over his team despite the prospects of the youngsters coming up. Although Johnson has spent almost two of his seasons with the Rangers on the sidelines due to severe injuries, the team seems to function at top level only when Ching is on the ice knocking, flailing, or fast.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 9
—After years of the most intensive rivalry, the Wah-Wah of Dartmouth and Brown's famous BRUN-ON-IA will echo and re-echo across the gridiron for the last time this afternoon, for these institutions will sever relations at the conclusion of today's battle.

At Dartmouth and Brown have seen an equal number of games during their long career, the outcome of today's engagement is most important to both eleven.

For the first time since before the Princeton game, Coach Tussaugh has a full team of eleven players who played in the game. In his starting line-up, Coach Tussaugh has no less than seven players who played in the game.

BN GRIMES
With the single exception of its first line plunger, Al Converse, Brown will have to rely on its own line.

The line of Brown, led by Al Converse, will have to rely on its own line.

ONE SOPHOMORE
The return of Joe Schen, the veteran tackle, has greatly strengthened Brown, both defensively and offensively. Schen may not be able to stand up under the Dartmouth bombardment, in which case Ken Hamm will relieve him.

Wrecked by the loss of Al Converse and Ken Clark, Dartmouth fully realizes the task it faces. Marsters and Clark were left in Hannover, the former by the Dick Hall House from which he was released last year.

Tommy Longnecker will be a quarter in place of the late Al Converse. Longnecker has been a substitute player for several weeks during the time he has had many opportunities. Longnecker has been a substitute player for several weeks during the time he has had many opportunities.
